

STOCK, FARM AND GARDEN.

must be such as to command prompt sale at top figures.

The writer of this once heard Mr. Miller, of Miller & Sibley, Franklin, Pa., say that "even if they sold no stock from their herd at all, the investment would be a first-class one, because they sold every pound of butter they made for 50 cents a pound. They were able to sell their butter at this high price because it was the very best butter made. For the butter cow to be made profitable the butter she makes must be the best it is possible to make."

The trouble with the average butter maker is that he or she doesn't really know what the most valuable article is. Don't rely upon your own taste. It may be that the butter you make and it is best is not really the best and not the most salable. The taste you should please is that of buyers, not your own. Elgin creamery is the most reliable butter on any market, always showing the highest quotations. It is a highly colored, cleanly made butter, possessing the "aroma" to a high degree. A fair Jersey cow, decently kept, will make the biggest kind of dividends if her product is what the people want to buy. And if it is not that, it will be the fault of her owner."

Use the Knife More Freely.

One of our exchanges offers very sound and sensible advice when it suggests that more horse ought to be gelded. It says: Breeders are just beginning to get alive to the fact that there is more profit in good geldings than in mediocre stallions. A gelding is much more tractable in company, is easier managed and less apt to become vicious and dangerous. He is easier kept in condition, and after weeks of preparation, when he is right on edge and ready for the race of his life, there is less danger of all calculations being upset by sudden loss of form. That gelding race better than stallions is well known to all horsemen, and this is a factor of such weight that J. J. McCafferty, the western horseman who raced so successfully in the East last year and who has a very choice lot of yearlings, has announced that he has gelded all the colts among them. Geldings do not fill up in the neck like stallions and it is easier to keep them down in flesh. They last longer and give better service and, as an indication of their increased value as race horses it is only necessary to instance the great campaigns made by the geldings Greenleaf, Little Albert, Lord Clinton and Gillette, each of whom won more races and more money with less care and trouble than could possibly have been the case had he been left entire.

A Homesick Mule—He Traveled Four Hundred Miles to Get Back to the Old Farm.

The affection animals have for home proves that they have a greater amount of sense than we sometimes give them credit for, says Golden Days, and some of the instances of the exercise of this faculty are wonderful. Near Humboldt, Tenn., lives Mr. Raines, a farmer, who, among other live stock, had a mule. He was a fine specimen, long in ears, short in tail and full of stubbornness, but very much attached to his master. Some time ago Mr. Raines purchased a farm at Independence, Ia., for the purpose of raising strawberries, and placed a man in charge. He also sent the mule down there by rail. But Zach, as he was called, was evidently not happy. He moaned and acted as if sick, and one morning he disappeared. Three weeks later, when Mr. Raines went to the barn at sunrise, he saw leaning against the fence a tired-looking mule. He had energy enough, however, to welcome his master with a blast that woke the echoes. It was Zach, beyond a doubt, and the corn crib was opened for the prodigal. The mule had walked a distance of at least four hundred miles to return to his old home.

Borers in Fruit Trees.

A correspondent of the Journal of Agriculture, who is a nurseryman, says: "There are two kinds—the one that works in the body, and the one which works close to the ground. For either it is only necessary to wash the trees thoroughly from the ground to the limbs in May, and again in August with a mixture of soft soap water, a little kerosene, to show the color and a little crude carbolic acid. This latter I never use, but it is good. Apply with a common white-wash brush. Remove the earth away from an inch or two and let the material get well down, then replace the dirt. If this practice is followed no one need be troubled with either the flat or round headed borer."

"If Mr. Grant already has the borers in his trees he will procure two pieces of wire about six to ten inches long, one the other heavier, and run them into the holes. He can easily tell when he finds the gentleman, as he will be mashed on the end of the wire. Don't be afraid to use the knife to help displace him."

"I do not exactly understand what he means by his trees blistering around the trunk near the ground. Is the bark green and healthy? Where the body borer works the bark becomes black looking, and is often taken for sun burn; but on removing the bark you will find the borer working under the bark. He does not work into the solid wood like the other, though his work is more deadly to the tree."

Poultry.

To keep a hen in good condition for laying she should never have a full crop during the day. It is not wrong to give a light meal of mixed food in the morning in the trough, but such meal should be only one-fourth the quantity the hens require. They should go away from the trough unsatisfied, and should then seek their food, deriving it grain by grain, engaging in healthy exercise to obtain it, and in such circumstances the food will be passed into the gizzard slowly and be better digested.

When properly conducted, poultry keeping is the most profitable of all the "side issues" of the farm. A small stock of fowls can return a larger profit upon the capital and labor required than can any other live stock.

A careful poultry keeper has found that by using Leghorns, and keeping them in small flocks, he can produce eggs at an average cost of four cents a dozen. What farm industry will permit a better profit?

If the markets are dull and prices low, the best place to sell is at home. It pays to raise chickens for the family table. When poultry and eggs are consumed at home there are no transportation expenses, no coops for shipping required, no hauling to the depot, and no commissions to pay for selling. There is no reason why a farmer should pay 15 cents or more for beef, and sell his poultry for less, nor should he be content with pork and potatoes when he can have poultry on his table.

A writer compares the unused land to the hen that lays no eggs, and advises selling it off and making the balance of the land yield more per acre.

A Pennsylvania farmer kept an account of sales of eggs from 90 hens for five months—March to July. Besides a family of six using all they wanted, 600 dozen were sold at 15 cents per dozen. He also raised 150 chicks. The eggs sold brought $1 for each hen during the five months.

The Inauguration of President Cleveland, March 4, 1893.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF RATES.

The E. T. V. & G., is the first line to announce rates for the inauguration on March 4. All coupon agents have been instructed to sell on March 1, 2, and 3, round trip tickets to Washington at one and one-third fare for the round trip. These tickets will be good to return until March 8, 1893.

With the superior train service of this line, which passes through East Tennessee and the beautiful Shenandoah Valley route, it is fully prepared to take care of the immense crowds which will take advantage of the reduced rates.

The Washington & Chattanooga Limited, which is the celebrated Vestibule train, composed of Pullman drawing room sleeping cars, day coaches and dining car, leaves Chattanooga daily at 12:35 noon, taking up connections from all Southern, Southeastern, Western and Southwestern points, arrive at Washington next morning at 9:30.

The Shenandoah Valley Express, with Pullman cars attached, leaves Chattanooga at 10:20 p. m. and arrives in Washington next evening at 11:15.

Detailed schedules can be secured by applying to any coupon ticket agent or traveling passenger agent of this company, or B. W. Wrenn, Gen. Pass. & Ticket Agent, Knoxville, Tenn.

The Nashville American will be the most important Democratic newspaper published in Tennessee during the present year. It will contain all of the political news from Washington, giving the names of persons appointed to office in the departments at Washington and to positions in Tennessee; will give the general news from all parts of the world, and will be of greater value in many ways to citizens of Tennessee than any other paper. The price of the Weekly American is $1 a year.

The "Washington Limited"

Is the name of the magnificent new train which leaves Nashville every morning for the East via N. C. & St. L. Ry., Chattanooga, Knoxville, Bristol, Roanoke, and through the famous Shenandoah Valley, making the trip five hours and a half quicker than ever made by any other line. This train has in addition to baggage car and elegant Palace Day Coaches, Pullman Vestibule Sleeping Cars, latest designs, which run through without change from Nashville to Washington, and also has a superb Dining Car between Chattanooga and Washington, giving unexcelled service. Leaving Nashville at 7:30 one morning, passengers by this train reach Washington at 9:30 next morning and New York that afternoon at 3 o'clock. This is truly a great convenience to the people of Tennessee, as it is not only the fastest and most magnificent train, but it is the only through car from Nashville to the East.

WAITING FOR THE CHANGE.

Some People Would Say It Is Just Like a Woman.

Time—Fifteen minutes before the train is due to leave.

Place—The jewelry store.

Husband discovered looking at his watch impatiently.

He—We haven't a moment to spare dear, and we must catch that train.

She—But I am waiting for the change. It will be here directly.

He—We ought to start right away.

She—I'm so sorry, but we must wait. I gave the clerk a hundred dollar bill.

He—Yes, if it's that much we'll have to wait for it, but it's very important that I catch that train to close up that deal with Jones. The option expires in an hour, and I'll lose seven hundred if I miss it.

She—This waiting is really aggravating, but the change will surely be here in a moment.

He—They're unconscionably slow.

She—Ah! Here it comes at last.

She thrusts it in her purse, and both start for the door. By tremendous exertion they succeed in reaching the station in time to see the train move out.

He—There, confound it, waiting for that train has cost me out of $300 at the lowest calculation.

She—Oh, I'm so sorry, dear!

He—So am I. By the way, how much did that measly change amount to anyhow?

She—Let me see. I paid for that necklace I got a month ago. That was eighty-five dollars.

He—Anything else?

She—Yes. That set of spoons we gave Mrs. Taddles on her silver wedding. That amounted to six dollars. That makes ninety-one dollars, doesn't it?

He—It does. Go on.

She—Then there was a ring for Lulu and one for Ida. The children had been promised them, you know.

He—Exactly. How much were they?

She—Two and a half each. Ninety-one dollars and five dollars make ninety-six dollars.

He—Anything else?

She—Yes. There was a dear little butterspoon at $2.50.

He—(grimly)—The total is $98.50 now. What else?

She—Well, I got a cute little stickpin that I really needed for $1.25.

He—Ninety-nine seventy-five.

She—And twenty cents' worth of silver polishing powder. What does that come to? How much change ought there to be out of a hundred dollar bill?

He—(making a desperate but ineffectual effort to keep calm)—Five cents!—Anna Pierpont Siviter in Brooklyn Life.

FARMS.

No. 1.—A farm of 151 acres, located on the Hampshire Pike four miles from Columbia, Tenn., three miles from church, three miles from public school; a small residence, large barn, running water and scattering timber. This place is sufficiently undulating to afford the best natural drainage. All land tillable and rich. It is sown down as follows: 50 acres in wheat, 40 acres in clover, 50 acres in orchard and other grasses; there are 10 acres for outland and 100 for orchard and waste. This farm yielded last year, 27 bushels of wheat per acre, 40 bushels of corn, 30 barrels of potatoes, and the hay netted $20 per acre. Price, $35 per acre.

No. 2.—A farm of 388 acres 3 miles west of Columbia, Tenn. This farm is well improved, soil very rich, and watered by never-falling springs. The improvements are first-class in every respect; an excellent spring house well arranged for a large dairy (30 cows) now in operation. 250 acres of this farm is in cultivation; 100 acres now in clover, 75 acres already sown in oats, the remainder is in grass, such as orchard and other permanent grasses; and garden and woodland. A large frame house is on this place, and two large barns and other necessary outbuildings; one large fish pond well stocked with fish. This is a splendid country residence and stock farm. Price, $65 per acre.

No. 3.—A farm of 240 acres on the Williamsport road 10 miles from Columbia, Tenn. Plenty of stock water, and all of the land is tillable; scattering timber and land inclined to rolling. Improvements are only ordinary. This place is located within half mile of Sawmill Valley, where there is a school and church. Price, $15/00.

No. 4.—A tract of 416 acres near Spring Hill, Tenn. This is a first-class tract of land, part of it in cultivation and some of the very best of the tract in grass for twenty years. It is well watered and fenced, with a small house and several small outbuildings; it is close to a railway station. This is a very desirable place and very cheap, considering the locality. Price, $55 per acre.

No. 5.—A farm of 40 acres 6 miles from Columbia on the Mooreville turnpike. All of the land is in cultivation except a small tract which is in woods. It is well watered and well fenced and is in a high state of cultivation and near good and permanent outbuildings. Large crops from this place yearly. Price, $45 per acre.

No. 6.—A farm of 140 acres near Zion Church, and 9 miles from Columbia, Tenn. The road leading to this place is a good country road that is well kept up by the people living along its course. This place has upon it a good house and barn, plenty of good stock water, good fences and good land. It is located within three miles of a railway station; and good neighbors, church and school near by. Price, $30 per acre.

No. 7.—A farm of 80 acres three miles from Columbia on the Mt. Pleasant pike; good house two-stories high, large barn, plenty of stock water and fruit trees. The land is first-class and in a high state of cultivation. A heavy crop of wheat was gathered from this place last year. Price, $25 per acre.

No. 8.—A farm of 150 acres situated on the Franklin Pike, 8 miles north of Columbia and 1 1/2 miles from Carter's Creek station, and two miles from Cleburne on the L. and N. Railroad, three miles from Spring Hill. All of this land is in cultivation; it is first-class land in every respect, well watered with five never-falling springs. It is scattering timber. There is a small outbuilding on this place. The same party owns another place within a few miles of the above. It contains about 400 acres, all well improved, first-class land, with a splendid farm house and a large barn. Price of both places $55 per acre.

No. 9.—A farm 8 miles from Columbia in the 12th civil district of Maury County, contains 14 acres, and has a small house of three rooms and kitchen with smoke house. There is a good orchard on the place and all necessary outbuildings. Land in a good state of cultivation. A school and church near this place. A very desirable section Price, $325.

No. 10.—A farm of 60 acres 6 1/2 miles from Columbia on the Bear Creek Pike. This is a good body of land which lies well, all in cultivation, moderately well fenced, well watered with springs, plenty of stock water, two small houses, no barn. The crop of corn from this place last year yielded 40 bushels to the acre, an abundance of clover hay is made every year, and the place is one-half mile from a school and church. Price, $1,000.

No. 11.—A farm of 84 acres on the Mooreville pike, two miles from Columbia. No improvements. All of the land is first-class and fresh. This is a good place for a truck garden. Price, $75 per acre.

No. 12.—A farm of 120 acres in the 8th civil district of Maury County, one mile west of the Putnam Pike. It has upon it two cabins and a good barn, never-falling running water, two large ponds and is well fenced. Half of this place is in cultivation, balance in blue-grass. Price, $25 per acre.

No. 13.—A farm of 125 acres, more or less, situated in the 21st civil district of Maury County, one mile south of the Bear Creek Pike and near Mt. Olivet and Berea Churches, and is known as the Eph Davis place. Half of this place is in cultivation and the remainder in timber and grass. Price, $35 per acre.

No. 14.—A farm of 100 acres, all in cultivation, with residence and outhouses; three miles from Columbia on the Santa Fe pike, one-half mile from Godwin station on the L. and N. R. R. Price $55 per acre.

No. 15.—Two farms of 119 and 172 acres respectively, located in the 17th civil district of Maury County, just across Duck River from Williamsport. The first place has 55 acres in cultivation, has a log house upon it containing five rooms, good barn, plenty of stock water supplied by five springs, plenty of timber. The second place has 75 acres in cultivation and it adjoins the place above mentioned. This place is supplied with good comfortable dwellings; has a barn and plenty of stock water, timber and grass. Price together or singly, $15 per acre.</
